District Attorney's Office Announces 'Warrant Wednesdays'

The Clark County District Attorney's Office is launching a new program to enlist the community's help in finding defendants who are currently wanted on an outstanding warrant for their arrest.

Warrant Wednesday will launch the first Wednesday in January, 2017, and will spotlight a defendant currently at-large and wanted for any number of crimes.

"We have a large number of cases that we cannot proceed on because the defendant's whereabouts is unknown," said Clark County District Attorney Steve Wolfson. "Our hope is that by sharing information about the defendant through social media and our local news outlets, these people will be located and finally answer for their crimes."

Citizens who may have information on the wanted defendants are asked to call Crime Stoppers at (702) 385-5555, submit information online at www.CrimeStoppersOfNV.com or text CRIMENV and their tip to CRIMES (274637).
